Indonesia consists of Sumatra, Java, Bali, Celebes and hundreds of other Islands extending a little over three thousand miles from Malaya on the west Borneo on the east. The indigenous people of Indonesia consists of a large number of ethnic groups, who form the majority and of the non-indigenous people the Chinese are the most numerous with a total of about 12 million.

Majority of the population are Muslims. There are about 3 million Christians and one million Buddhists. About 40 per cent of total population lives in Java. Indonesia is considered to be one of the world's richest regions. Sugar-cane, tea, coffee, quinine and palm-oil, rubber and rope fibre are produced on a large scale. It has rich mineral deposits of tin and bauxite.

It is for its rich spice products, that the Europeans were attracted to the Indonesia. Portuguese were first to enter spice trade during the early 17th century. They were followed by English. By the third quarter of the 17th century the Dutch gained control over Indonesia by ousting Portuguese and English. The Dutch people settled in the country in considerable number. They intermarried with the natives. Their rule was benevolent but very autocratic. Dutch did not develop Indonesians in the art of selfgovernment. Added to it they were aggrieved for their ruthless exploitation by Portugese. This led to discontentment and stirred their National spirit. People of Indonesia were inspired by the National
